DETAILED ACTION

WITHDRAWN REJECTIONS

1. The 35 U.S.C. 102(b) rejection of Claims 1 – 6 as being anticipated by Duynslager et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,769,267), of record on page 2 of the previous Action, is withdrawn.

NEW REJECTIONS

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 5 – 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mansell de May (U.K. Patent 1,164,141) in view of Konefal (U.S. Patent No. 5,914,381).

With regard to Claim 5, Mansell de May discloses a blow molded (page 1, lines 21 - 31) container (capsule; page 2, lines 1 - 6), therefore having a wall, for delivering a laundry composition (detergent; page 2, line 99) having a film that is dissolved with the container is exposed to water to expose perforations (page 2, lines 99 – 109); the film is therefore a material that dissolves at an intended aqueous destination site, leaving perforations. Mansell de May fails to disclose a container which is injection molded.

Konefal teaches that it is well – known in the art to blow mold a container from a parison that is injection molded (column 1, lines 18 – 23) for the purpose of obtaining a container having any desired size or shape (column 1, lines 13 – 15). The desirability of providing for injection molding in Mansell de May, which is a container, would therefore be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

It therefore would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time Applicant's invention was made to have provided for injection molding in Mansell de May in order to obtain a capsule having any desired size or shape as taught by Konefal.

With regard to Claim 6, the material disclosed by Mansell de May comprises polyvinyl alcohol (page 2, line 101).

4. Claims 1 – 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mansell de May (U.K. Patent 1,164,141) in view of Konefal (U.S. Patent No. 5,914,381) and further in view of Ehrlich (U.S. Patent No. 4,099,912).

Mansell de May and Konefal disclose a container for detergent having a water – soluble film as discussed above. With regard to Claims 1 – 3, Mansell de May and Konefal fail to disclose a water soluble film comprising gelatin.

Ehrlich teach a film comprising gelatin for a container (column 8, lines 43 – 47) for the purpose of containing a detergent with additional agents having sequestering properties (column 8, lines 47 – 53). One of ordinary skill in the art would therefore have recognized the advantage of providing for the film of Ehrlich in Mansell de May and Konefal, which comprises an container detergent, depending on the desired containment of the end product.

It therefore would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time Applicant's invention was made to have provided for a water soluble film comprising gelatin in Mansell de May and Konefal in order to contain a detergent with additional agents having sequestering properties as taught by Ehrlich.

With regard to Claim 4, the container disclosed by Mansell de May comprises an elongate tubular package having a closed rounded end as shown in Figure 8.

ANSWERS TO APPLICANT'S ARGUMENTS

5. Applicant's arguments and amended claims regarding the 35 U.S.C. 102(b) rejection of Claims 1 – 6 as being anticipated by Duynslager et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,769,267), of record in the previous Action, have been considered and have been found to be persuasive. The rejection is therefore withdrawn. The new rejections above are directed to amended Claims 1 – 6. The amendment has been entered, and prosecution re – opened, because although the previous Action was intended to be non – final, it appears that Applicant thought that the Action was final, and therefore responded with an amendment that was received by the Office as after – final. Re – opening prosecution will serve to clear what appears to have been confusion between the Applicant and the Office.
